

What can I do? – Role play 1

You have a new student called Kishan in your class. He is often teased because he is just learning to speak English. Sometimes he is teased because his lunch is different from most students' lunches.

At lunch time most of the boys in your class play tag. Kishan is shy and doesn't seem to like playing games that involve running. You like Kishan and feel bad that he is often unhappy in the playground. You want to be his friend, but you don't want to miss out on playing tag with your other friends.

What should you do?
